The co ored troops are reported as having behaved admirably; taking their part of the life at the same time the others did.

Our loss in the entire affair was not over 200, of whom some 40 were colored.

The 2d corps came up in the evening, and took position on the left of Smith.

In the morning, an advance was made by the 2d corps, Gen. Birney in command, and the enemy were driven from another strong position, with considerable loss in killed, wounded, and irisoners.

the enemy were driven from another strong position, with considerable loss in killed, two unded, and prisoners.

In the afternoon, Burnside came up and took the left of Hannock, and at 6 p. m. an advance was made along the line, and a desperate struggle ensued on the left and centre, both with artillery and infantry, which lasted till llong after dark, Birney's division gaining a breastwork in their front.

A large number of prisoners were taken by this corps.

This morning another advance was made along the line at daybreak, and Burnside has eath in about 400 prisoners, sitteen of whom were officers, mostly Tennossee troops from of Beauregard's command; also a battle flag.
